Grand Jury Returns 15 Indictments

The Grand Jury empaneled by the Circuit Court in Elba on Monday, February 5th, has submitted its final report.

There were 16 matters presented to the group and they returned 15 indictments consisting of 12 felonies and 3 misdemeanors.

The Health Department and Pension and Security Building were found to be in need of minor repairs, courthouse annex has termite damage and the County Jail is in a deplorable condition. It was recommended that repairs be made immediately and a competent architect be hired to determine the feasibility and cost of overhaul or new construction.

The Courthouse was considered as in good condition considering its age. The only exception here was in the restrooms, all of which need cleaning and repairing.

Rate Reduction Enables Lower Cost Electricity

A long sought for rate reduction by Alabama Electric Cooperative, Inc., Tuesday got final approval from Washington officials pointing the way to immediate lower costs for purchase of electric power by 10 members of the generation and transmission cooperative.

Alabama Electric President James Utsey of Andalusia announced the new across the board rate reduction which will lower the cost of power by as much as 10% depending on the load. Under the new rate structure, known as the "A-4", the cost of power drops sharply as the load increases.

"We have been working toward this rate reduction for more than a year," said Utsey in announcing the rate change. "This Administration officials this week approved the reduction. The new rate goes into effect February 1."

The rate slash was made possible, Utsey pointed out, by the joint effort of the members of Alabama Electric. He said: "This is just another example of the great benefits that can accrue to our cooperative and municipal members when they stand together and work together for better and lower cost electricity. Certainly, this rate reduction would not have been possible had the members of Alabama Electric decided to withdraw their support of our important program."

The new rate reduction will affect cities and cooperatives in 16 counties across Alabama stretching from the Georgia to the Mississippi line and some counties in Northwest Florida.

Included in members who will receive the rate reduction is the city of Elba which owns its own local electrical system and thousands of dollars of income for city projects. This came about when Alabama Electric led the way in the purchase of the facilities of the old Alabama Water Service Company, Alabama Electric agreed to generate and transmit electricity to its members on a cost basis.

In addition to assisting Elba in the purchase of its own facilities and providing them wholesale power through the years, Alabama Electric has invested many thousands of dollars in building and maintaining substations and other facilities to step down the high voltage bulk power so it can be run straight into homes and businesses.

Electric Manager Basil Thompson said that cooperative projections indicate that over the next 10 years, the new rate cut could mean total extra net revenues of $3 million to the cities of Elba, Brundage, Andalusia and Opp alone and additional millions to the rural cooperatives.

Because of a package agreement with Alabama Electric made in 1964, the City of Elba now owns its own electric distribution system and has been able to earn hundreds of thousands of dollars of income for city projects. This came about when Alabama Electric led the way in the purchase of the facilities of the old Alabama Water Service Company, Alabama Electric agreed to generate and transmit electricity to its members on a cost basis.

These men took office at the annual meeting last Thursday night and will serve for one year.

Visiting Hours To Be Enforced At Hospital

The Elba General hospital staff has had to start locking the doors to keep people from congesting the halls of the hospital after visiting hours. They urge everyone to observe these hours for the convenience of the staff and benefit of the patients. They will continue to allow some close members of the family to remain with seriously ill patients.

House Numbers Must Be Displayed

City officials are reminding local citizens that the recently passed house numbering ordinance allowed a grace period for getting the numbers up and that period has expired. The law requires that the owner to affix the designated number to the house in such a manner that it can be readily seen from the street.

Commissioners Race Boiling

Politics are picking up steam in Coffee County. Seven former announcements are appearing in this issue of the Elba Clipper for candidates for the four commissioner districts. Other than those announced last week, Flounroy Whitman, Buster Bowden, J. Albert Dyess and Charles Brown have announced their intentions. Flounroy Whitman, farmer and businessman, announces his candidacy for re-election as County Commissioner, District No. 3.

Whitman is a native of Coffee County and has always made his home in the county. He is married to the former Della Oliver of the Pine Level community. They have three children and nine grandchildren. He is active in his church and he is a deacon in his church and active in all affairs of the church.

He is a member of the Elba Lions Club and an active member of the Chamber of Commerce and one of the original organizers of the Elba Volunteer Fire Department and a member of the Pleasant Ridge Methodist Church. He is a Mason and a member of the Order of the Eastern Star. He is married to the former Katherine Henderson and they have five children. He claims that since he became commissioner he has paved more miles of road in District Four than all other commissioners for the district combined. Bowden stated that his years of service have given him the knowledge and the know-how to get more roads paved than would otherwise be possible. He added that he has always worked with the people of District 4 and the whole county.

J. ALBERT DYESS, candidate for Commissioner of the Northwest District (District 1) is a member of one of the pioneer families of this county. He was appointed

Cable TV Coming To Elba Soon

Elba will soon be one of the more than 2,700 communities in the United States being served by community cable television. The cable idea was first tried in 1949 by a small town in Oregon which was cut off from television by a mountain range. The system will begin operation in Elba during the early part of March, according to manager, Pete Johnston.

No converter will be needed for Elba TV Cable subscribers to pick up UHF signals on the cable system, Johnston explained. He also stated that no antenna will be needed by cable subscribers.

The direct-to-the-home coaxial cable service makes possible pleasant television viewing in fringe areas of reception.

Johnston stressed that CATV is not to be confused with pay TV, in which the viewer must pay to see a particular program, with CATV you pay for the convenience of being connected to a fully-equipped master antenna. CATV is not involved in the programs put on the television stations or networks. The cable operator provides a receiving service, not a program service.

There will be a weather station reporting at all times on channel 8 for all cable users. These weather reports consist of instrument gauges mounted in a half circle and a television camera continually scanning them. They will be located in the Elba TV Cable's tower north of town.

WINNERS IN THE BEEF COOK-OFF for Coffee County are pictured here, following their selection Monday in activities at Elba High School. Each of these girls was the winner in her respective school.

Winning first place was Miss Susan Nobles, of Kinston; second place went to Miss Lawanna Houtt of Elba; and third place was won by Miss Gail Varney of Enterprise.

Lions Ask For Donation Of Eye Glasses

The Elba Lions Club has appealed to the citizens of Elba again for any discarded eye glasses they may have. The Lions are collecting these glasses to be sent to Chile and India to be reground and fitted on children who would otherwise be unable to secure them.

The Lions Club members will be going from house to house on Thursday night collecting the eye glasses. If anyone would like to donate a pair they can leave the front porch light turned on or call any member of the Elba Lions Club. This drive lasts through the month of Feb.

State Checking Poultry Plants Method

A joint survey of poultry plants moving product intrastate has been completed by the Alabama Department of Public Health and the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Due to growth and many technical changes in one of Alabama's large protein-producing food industries (the poultry industry) accompanied by total determination to supply wholesome and healthful foods to consumers, it was decided to evaluate the total poultry process operations to see if inspection programs were keeping pace with changes in the industry. Generally, product was found to be satisfactory; however, improvement was needed in certain areas. Some of these included need for improved sanitation in few instances, improvement of some facilities, updating of inspection authority, additional funds for inspection, and a larger enforcement staff.

Army Reserve Reorganization To Be Discussed

McCarty will report on the new troop structure and its effect on USAR assignments. The meeting will be held in Room 2 of the Ft. Rucker Officers Open Mess, starting at 6:30 p.m. with a social hour.
